Contractors Dig Into Solutions

Top 250 revenue rises as demand for global contracting services fuels investment in local and regional resources development by Emell Adolphus and Jonathan Keller

A complex market yields competitive solutions, according to comments from this year's ENR Top 250 International Contractors. Amid intensifying geopolitical instability, supply chain disruptions, shifting construction costs and weather-related schedule delays amplified by climate change, contractors say proactive risk mitigation is keeping many projects in play—as evidenced by a 9.7% rise in total revenue for Top 250 contractors last year, from $501.2 to $550.6 billion. Yet as economic uncertainty puts the profitability of some projects under increased pressure, contractors say strengthening local relationships is more important now than ever.

"Customers today are looking for certainty in an uncertain environment," says Skanska President and CEO Anders Danielsson.

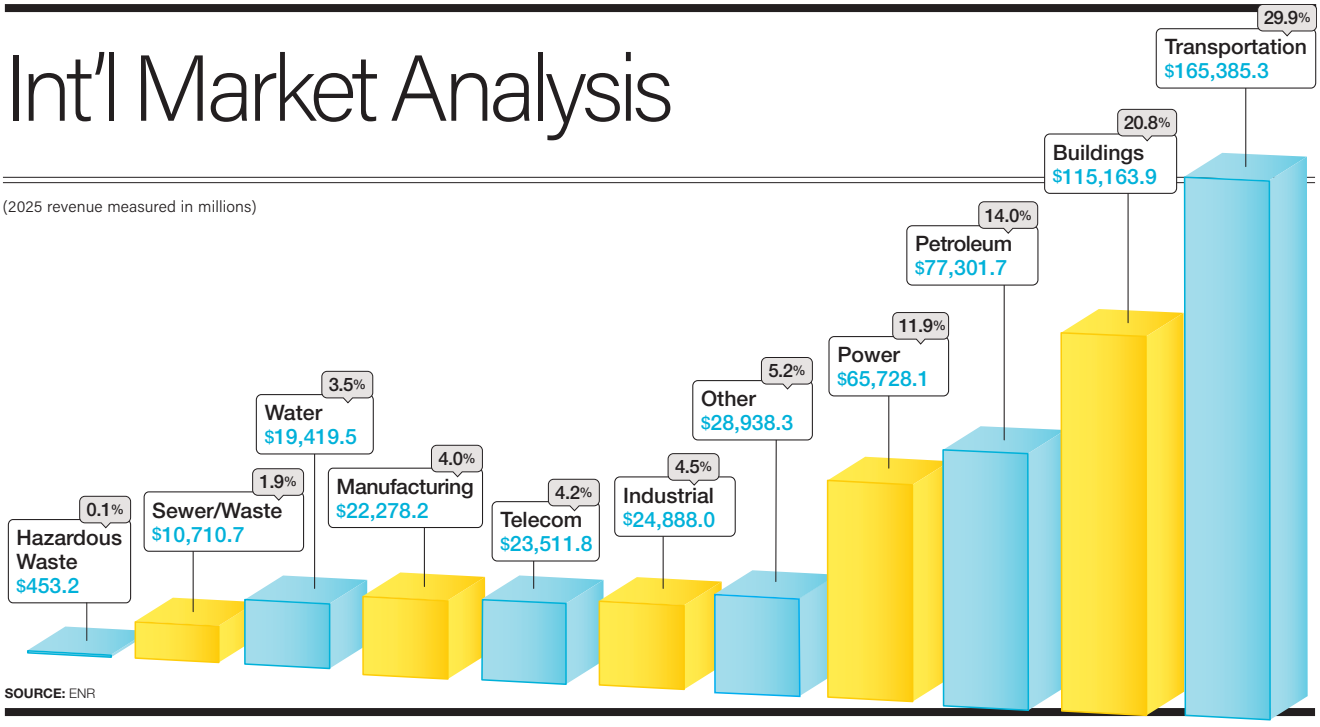

Ranked No. 8 on the Top 250 list this year, Skanska's early customer engagement, deep supply-chain relationships and proactive risk management enables the contractor to deftly navigate cost volatility for clients across sectors, says Danielsson.

As data center hyperscalers consume global contracting resources, Danielsson believes that the "challenge is not demand, but access to the specialized workforce needed to deliver complex projects at scale." Skanska is general contractor for the new Troll Research Station, supporting life science research in Antarctica, and master developer in the pre-development phase of New York's $8-billion renovation of Penn Station, among other complex projects, notes Danielsson.

"Because data centers, life sciences and advanced manufacturing require many of the same technical capabilities, we can leverage expertise across sectors and deploy resources where demand is greatest," says Danielsson.

Last month, ACS Group/Hochtief, ranked No. 1 on the Top 250 list, celebrated the opening of the Gordie Howe International Bridge, connecting Detroit, Mich., to Windsor, Ontario, as the longest cable-stayed bridge in North America. As an equity member in the Bridging North America consortium, ACS Group subsidiary ACS Infrastructure, with Fluor and Aecon, led the development and financing of the public-private partnership (P3) project and will benefit through a 36-year design-build-finance-operate-maintain (DBFOM) availability-payment concession.

For Aecon, ranked No. 88, the contractor says pursuing such long-term concession projects are "meaningful steps" to strengthen its platform for long-term growth and expand its operations and maintenance footprint across North America. Since last year, the Toronto-based contractor has acquired industrial contractors Bodell Construction (Utah), Trinity Industrial Services (Texas), utility contractors Arc American and C.A. Advanced (Indiana), and K.P.C's Power Electrical and Energy Metering Solutions businesses (Ontario).

In a statement, the contractor adds that the acquisitions align with "key priorities" in Aecon's strategic plan focusing on derisking its overall portfolio and accelerating growth, as well as securing a "more predictable and increased profitability in North America and beyond."

Sharpening Global Strategy

At Sacyr, ranked No. 37, Global Director of Business Development José Manuel Loureda says the company is increasingly focused on design-build-finance-maintain contracts under P3s and concessions, "where we believe we can deliver greater value and compete more effectively," he says.

As contractors pursue more complex projects, "another important consideration is the ability to anticipate and assess the impact of supply-chain constraints, inflation and market-specific cost fluctuations," says Loureda—and "each country presents unique operating conditions."

To address such regional needs, Loureda says Sacyr is reconfiguring its bid-control and risk-assessment process and strengthening its presence in markets that support more collaborative delivery models.

"These projects foster a closer partnership with the client and move away from traditional fixed-price or lump-sum approaches," says Loureda, adding that "megaprojects, especially hyperscale data centers, are creating significant pressure on both skilled labor and critical materials."

Amid shortages of electrical engineers, commissioning specialists and contractors, he says demand for transformers, switchgear, generators and cooling equipment has extended lead times "to over a year in some cases."

Facing increased project delivery, supply chain and labor availability challenges, Top 250 contractors say collaboration continues to be key.

At Nesma & Partners Contracting Co., ranked No. 79, Board Chairman Rami Alturki says workforce-development initiatives through the contractors' training institute, its project delivery partner Kent and other specialist technology partners are "helping us build capabilities internally rather than relying exclusively on an increasingly constrained external labor market."

In similar fashion, Mesa Holding Inc. Co., ranked No. 187, says it has continued to strengthen its workforce strategy by introducing programs focused on employee development and long-term retention. "We recognize that attracting and retaining qualified employees requires more than competitive employment conditions: It requires providing continuous growth opportunities and a strong company culture," says CEO Mert Boysanoğlu.

Behind the Numbers

After falling between 2023 and 2024, median international revenue saw an uptick last year, increasing 4.8% to $486.9 million. Among the 237 firms to file a survey this year and last, 65.8% reported increased international revenue on this year's survey.

Overall, ENR's Top 250 International Contractors reported $765.4 billion in contracts won outside their domestic countries, up 5.2% from last year's survey. Firms also reported slightly stronger backlogs than a year ago, with 57.1% showing an increase. Only 17.5% reported lower backlogs.

Revenue earned in the Middle East region saw the largest increase last year, up 24.9%. Both the African (up 15.5%) and Caribbean (15.0%) regions also saw a double-digit increase in revenue. Revenue earned in the Caribbean rose 58.5% over the past two years.

Powered by its housing projects in countries such as Iraq, Croatia, Dubai and Oman, BCM Holding Chairman Baran Çoktin says the No. 118-ranked contractor is steadily expanding its operations into Europe, Central Asia and North Africa.

Only the Latin American and Canadian regions saw a decrease in revenue between 2024 and 2025, down 6.5% and 1.7%, respectively.

"Similar to our success in Turkey, we are conducting advanced strategic collaboration discussions for new projects in different parts of the world," adds Çoktin, explaining that the contractor is focusing on "meta-luxury" and high-concept real estate developments across major cities. Çoktin anticipates BCM Holding's largest expenses next year will be its ongoing projects and land acquisitions, "as well as our entry processes into the German market, which we are preparing for [and] will constitute our largest expenditure item in 2027."

Across Europe, "we continue to see strong demand for mobility infrastructure," says Pierre Sironval, CEO of Besix Group, ranked No. 44. "Governments are investing in projects that improve connectivity and reduce congestion," he adds.

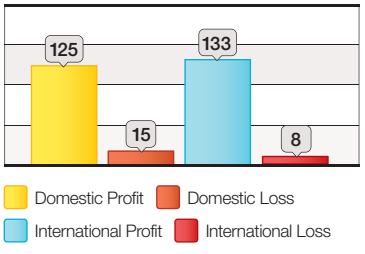

MPK Energy also is expanding its international footprint across Eastern Europe, Africa and the Middle East. With that expansion, "we are investing in digital project management tools, building information modeling coordination, integrated planning systems and data-driven construction management processes to improve project delivery and operational performance," says Koray Babaoğlu, chairman of the board. He adds the contractor, ranked No. 231, has seen its international growth primarily driven by healthcare, public infrastructure, industrial and energy-related markets, as well as sports facilities.

"We have observed increasing demand for technically complex public projects that require multidisciplinary engineering capabilities, international quality standards and strong project management," says Babaoğlu. "This trend has encouraged us to further strengthen our engineering, planning, procurement and construction management capabilities."

Driving Success

Every market ENR tracks rose by double digits except the transportation, sewer/waste and manufacturing. Manufacturing is the only market that shrank between 2024 and 2025, contracting 29.5%. The greatest growth was seen in the hazardous waste (43.6%), telecom (43.5%) and water supply (35.8%) markets. The hazardous waste market had dropped by double digits in each of the past two Top 250 list cycles.

Among such markets, water infrastructure has become one of the Arab Contractors' strongest areas of specialization, says Chairman Ahmed Elassar. Driven by urbanization, climate change and increasing water scarcity, demand for integrated water solutions has accelerated in some Middle East regions, says Elassar.

Consortium Delivers Saudi Simple Cycle Gas Plant in 11 Months

Egyptian contractor Elsewedy Electric (No. 66), in consortium with Siemens Energy, is delivering the Rabigh Combined Cycle Power Plant project in Rabigh, Saudi Arabia. The simple cycle phase of construction was completed in 11 months from award, ahead of peak demand in the Saudi Arabian summer. With completion of the combined cycle phase, the facility will generate 1,200 MW, supplying electricity to nearly 600,000 homes, the firm says. The more than $1-billion project is expected to wrap up in 2027.

In response, Arab Contractors has sharpened its expertise in delivering water and wastewater treatment facilities, including the Bahr El-Baqar Wastewater Treatment Plant and the New Delta Wastewater Treatment Plant.

For Comsa Corporación, ranked No. 176, CEO of Infrastructures, Engineering and Services Guillermo Lorenzo attributes the contractor's international growth to Europe's rail sector, "with a focus on the construction, modernization, and maintenance of infrastructure."

Going forward, No. 191-ranked Pekerler Insaat's CEO Özgür Peker, says the firm aims to expand its international market share of healthcare facility projects by focusing on "high-tech healthcare complexes and specialized, high-profile structures.

"Over the past few years, we have seen a significant shift toward integrated health campuses and modern social infrastructure, which have now become the core pillars of our international portfolio," Peker says.

Navigating Environmental Challenges

At a global level, Top 250 contractors say intensifying geopolitical risks such as the U.S.-Iran War and the Russia-Ukraine War have reinforced the importance of establishing local partnerships and community engagement around projects.

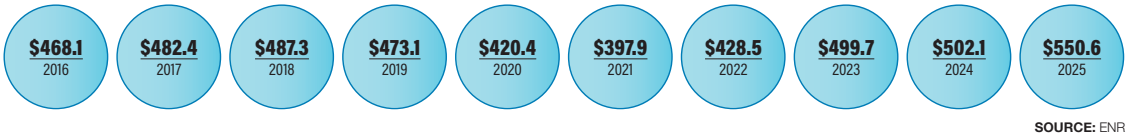

"Employing local talent, working with local suppliers and considering the needs of the communities are key elements of our approach."

Baturay Konak, COO, Onur Group

"Employing local talent, working with local suppliers and considering the needs of the communities where we operate are key elements of our approach," says Baturay Konak, COO at Onur Group, ranked No. 161. He adds, "We believe this contributes to the successful delivery of our projects but also to the long-term development of the regions in which we work."

Many of DORCE Prefabricated & Construction's current projects involve delivering complex modular EPC solutions in "remote and challenging environments under accelerated schedules," says General Manager of Business Development Murat Türkmen. Through its integrated engineering, manufacturing and construction services, Türkmen says the contractor, ranked No. 230, has overcome logistical and supply chain challenges without compromising quality, safety and timely project delivery."

In regions where extreme weather amplified the effects of climate change, Top 250 contractors say buy-in from local stakeholders can also save lives.

"Extreme heat, high humidity and remote locations has made proactive safety planning and workforce protection essential," says George Ramsis, DCEO-Business Development and Regional Managing Director at M.A. Kharafi & Sons, ranked No. 87. "MAK strengthens its [health, safety and environment] systems through risk assessment, environmental controls and training, and strictly complies with regulations on working-hour restrictions in extreme weather."

At FCC Construcción, ranked No. 22, Bidding and Commercial Director Manuel Olivares Blázquez says health and safety are "non-negotiable core pillars" on the contractor's jobsites. Climate change has "forced the industry to adapt to extreme weather events," he says, from "intense heatwaves in the Middle East to severe winters and storms in Northern Europe and North America."

HEISCO Crews Handle Oil Spills and UXO

Heavy Engineering Industries & Shipbuilding Co. K.S.C. (HEISCO) (No. 211) is working on the South Kuwait Excavation, Transportation and Remediation Project. The $185-million project calls for remediation of oil-contaminated soil and sludge in the Greater Burgan oilfield, which also includes cleanup of unexploded ordnance from the Gulf War in the early 1990s.

During periods of uncertainty, trust among contracting stakeholders can protect assets, maintain business continuity and reinforce client confidence no matter the environment, says Elsewedy Electric's Group Vice President Wael Hamdy. The firm is ranked No. 66.

"We have never measured a market by its challenges, but by the value we can create for its people and its economy," says Hamdy. "Lasting success is built on trust, local partnerships and long-term commitment." ■

How to Read the Tables

Companies are ranked according to construction revenue generated outside of each company's home country in 2025 in U.S. $ millions. Firms not ranked last year are designated . Some markets may not add up to 100% due to omission of "other" miscellaneous market category and rounding. NA=Not available. †=Includes revenue of subsidiaries, the names of which now are available through www.ENR.com.

Figures include prime contracts, shares of joint ventures, subcontracts, design-construct contracts and construction management-at-risk contracts when a firm's risks are similar to those of a general contractor. Figures also include the value of installed equipment when a firm has prime responsibility for specifying and procuring it within the scope of a construction contract.

General Building includes commercial buildings, offices, stores, educational facilities, government buildings, hospitals, medical facilities, hotels, apartments, housing, etc.

Manufacturing comprises auto, electronic assembly, textile plants, etc.

Power comprises thermal and hydroelectric power plants, waste-to-energy plants, transmission lines, substations, cogeneration plants, etc.

Water Supply includes dams, reservoirs, transmission pipelines, distribution mains, irrigation canals, desalination and drinking-water treatment plants, water pumping stations, etc.

Sewerage / Solid Waste includes sanitary and storm sewers, treatment plants, pumping plants, incinerators, industrial waste facilities, etc.

Industrial Process comprises pulp and paper mills, steel mills, nonferrous metal refineries, pharmaceutical plants, chemical plants, food and other processing plants, etc.

Petroleum includes refineries, petrochemical plants, offshore facilities, pipelines, etc.

Transportation includes airports, bridges, roads, canals, locks, dredging, marine facilities, piers, railroads, tunnels, etc.

Hazardous Waste includes chemical, nuclear waste treatment, asbestos and lead abatement, etc.

Telecommunications comprises transmission lines, cabling, towers and antennae, data centers, etc.
